(PDF) Concepts of Environment and Nature in Ancient India

Indian philosophy refers to philosophical traditions of the Indian subcontinent. A traditional classification divides orthodox and heterodox schools of philosophy, depending on one of three alternate criteria: whether it believes the Vedas as a valid source of knowledge; whether the school believes in the premises of Brahman and Atman; and whether the school believes in afterlife and Devas.

Indian philosophy - Wikipedia

The Vaisheshika school was founded by Kanada in the 6th Century B.C., and it is atomist and pluralist in nature. The basis of the school's philosophy is that all objects in the physical universe are reducible to a finite number of atoms , and Brahman is regarded as the fundamental force that causes consciousness in these atoms.
