The other frog continued to jump as hard as he could. Once again, the crowd of frogs yelled at him to stop the pain and just die. He jumped even harder and finally made it out. When he got out, the other frogs said, "Did you not hear us?" The frog explained to them that he was deaf. He thought they were encouraging him the entire time.

Two Frogs • Moral Stories

Here's an all-in-one glass frog holding a tight set of daisies. Somewhat like the Pave arrangements that are very popular now. Imagine how cute they would look if you had several of them running down the middle of a long dining table. I think they would also look nice in antique teacups.

Flower Frogs • What Are They, and Why You Want Them.

Whether it's a bright blue poison dart frog or a brown, warty toad, a frog's survival is all about water. Most frogs begin their lives as jelly-like eggs that need moisture to develop. The eggs hatch into aquatic tadpoles, which breathe through gills. As the tadpoles grow, they develop lungs and gain the ability to breathe air.
