Answer: There are no "lost books" of the Bible, or books that were taken out of the Bible, or books missing from the Bible. Every book that God intended to be in the Bible is in the Bible. There are many legends and rumors of lost books of the Bible, but the books were not, in fact, lost. Rather, they were rejected. There are literally hundreds of religious books that were written in the same time period as the books of the Bible.

22 Lost Books Referenced in The Bible. Below is a list of the books that the Bible references, or tells us to look at, that are lost forever. A few have pseudepigraphical (fake copies that claim to be the original) versions, but none have the original versions. Note that many conservative Bible scholars would argue that even though these books are referenced or quoted, none of them were intended to be a part of the canon of the Bible.

Apocryphal books of the New Testament. 'Lost Books of the Bible' might suggest some recent discovery, for example the Dead Sea Scrolls, but that is not what this is. It is books which have been around for a long time but were not deemed canonical by the church fathers.

The Lost Books of the Bible by William Hone

The Real Apocrypha. One of the best kept theological secrets is.... that the Bible used by the modern Church is not the original King James Bible. Only half of the original Books of the Apocrypha are in the Catholic Bible. The Apocrypha fills a 400 year gap missing from the King James Bible. In the original 1611 King James Version, the translators cross-referenced verses from "Apocrypha" books, in the margin notes (I know - why reference if it's not "holy enough" to put in?).

Are there lost books of the Bible? No, there aren't. But that hasn't stopped people from saying there are and trying to alter God's word. The Christian church didn't establish the Word of God. Instead, the Christian church recognized it and never included what does not belong in the Canon. "My sheep hear My voice, and I know them, and they follow Me." (John 10:27).
